A MAN WHO OWNS A CHURCH

BEVERTHELESS, HE CAN'T HAVE THINGS

Mr. Elsey Quiets a Row in the Congrega tion by Having the Gas Turned Off-The Jewett Avenue Chapel Violently Rent, The Rev. E. Eben Baylis, pastor of the Elsey Memorial Faith Cure chapel in Jewett avenue. Jersey City, and Mr. John Elsey, the Washington Market fish dealer, who owns the chapel, severed their spiritual and business relations on Friday night.

Mr. Elsey believes he was cured of rheumatism at a gospel tent belonging to the Mount Zion Faith Cure church eighteen months ago. His wife and little girl were also cured of some dispuse. Mr. Elsey was so grateful that he built the Jewett avenue chapel and dedicated It to Faith Cure religion, but he kept the deeds of the property in his possession. The Mount Zion church refused to have fanything to do with the property because the deeds were not given up. Mr. Elsey then decided to run the church on his own hook, and he engaged the Rev. W. Albert Philips to preach for him. Mr. Philips had been there a little while when he took it into his head to get married and he asked Mr. Elsey for more salary. He didn't get it. His request made Mr. and Mrs. Elsey angry, and then trouble began in the church. One Sunday Mr. Philips preached from the text. "It is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven." Mr. Elsey and Mrs. Elsey thought the sermon was directed at them, and when the service was concluded Mrs. Elsey told the minister that his services were no longer required. Mr. Philips had many friends in the church, and a score left and organized a church of their own.

Elder Raymond, who is 84 years old and has been fifty years in the traces, next took charge of the chapel. He preached too much faith cure and not enough salvation, and the Rev. Mr. Simpson of the Broadway Tabernacle in this city, who had maintained a fatherly eye over the chapel, objected. Mr. Raymond was dismissed, and then Mr. Baylis was called. Mr. Baylis got a contract for a year before he began preaching. One condition of the contract was that he was to have exclusive control of the religious exercises of the church. He was to get $1,000 a year and a parsonage. He preached in a way that brought many people to the altar. This lasted a few months, and then Mrs. Elsey began to dislike Mr. Baylis and she stayed away from church. Her friends sided with her. She declared the contract would have to be broken or else the church would break up. The feeling grew until about the first of this month, when Mr. Baylis decided that the interest in the church work was waning and something would have to be done. On Friday night, after the regular prayer meeting service was finished he came down from the pulpit, and, standing in front of the communion table, began gently to chide the congregation because they did not put more heart into the work. He had been speaking for a few minutes when Peacon Brower got up and told him he was all wrong. the contract was that he was to have

I did not come here to be thrashed." he said, "and I don't propose to stand it. If you think that you have been slighted, and there sen't heart enough in the work, it is your place to call us all to the altar and there we can pray about it."

Mr. Baylis said he thought it his duty as pastor to tell the people if they were not constant in the work.

At this Mr. Elsey jumped up and said: "I have something to say, and I propose to say it now. I've held it long enough. You have been too insulting, sir, and I won't have it. You keep your tongue between your tech hereafter."

keep your tongue between your teeth hereafter.

The meeting wound up very suddenly, and after it was over Mr. Baylis, Mr. Elsey, Mr.
Brower, and Mr. Bruce had a conference.
There was a hot time, ending in everybody going home angry, Mr. Baylis continued to officiate as pastor of the church. The following Sunday, while he was reading from the Bible at the morning service, Mr. Elsey suddenly got up and left the church. He afterward accused Mr. Baylis of preparing the sermon especially to hurt his feelings. By this time the church congregation took an active part in the fight between the pastor and the proprietor, and charges and counter charges were made affecting the character of both. Mrs. William Tuip, who is one of the hardest-working members of the church, called on Mr. Baylis, and in the presence of his wite and family she made charges against the minon Mr. Baylis, and in the presence of his wife and family she made charges against the minister's children, a boy 10 years old and a girl 12 years old. There was a great row in the house. Mr. Baylis demanded the names of the persons who had told her the stories. She said one was a young woman, a member of the church, and the other was a young man. She rolused to tell the name of either, but she agreed to meet the young woman at the minister's house. Mr. Baylis appointed a committee to wait on Mrs. Tulp and find out from her where she heard the stories, and to investigate them. Mrs. Tulp refused to give the committee any information, and when Mr. Baylis, who was present when the committee called on her. told her the stories were untrue, she jumped up and denounced him as a liar, and told him that the Spirit of God was not in his heart, When the committee had gone Mrs. Tulp sat that the Spirit of God was not in his heart, When the committee had gone Mrs. Tulp sat down and wrote out her charges and sent them to Mr. Elsey. The stories got to be com-mon talk in the church, and the bad feeling them to Mr. Elsey. The stories got to be common talk in the church, and the bad feeling was increased.

A week ago Mr. Elsey, on the advice of his wife, called on Mr. Simpson for belp. Something had to be done, he said, and so a conference of ministers was called, it ended in the passage of a resolution to the effect that as it was impossible to keep Mr. Baylis and peace at the same time, one had to go, and Mr. Baylis had better resign. On Friday a meeting of the church was called, and Mr. Baylis requested that the Rev. Mr. Walcott, a friend, should preside at the meeting and read his resignation. Before the meeting was called to order it was agreed that anybody who wished to speak for or against Mr. Baylis might do so. As soon as the resignation was read an old lady got up and began to extol Mr. Baylis's virtues. What she said made Mr. Elsey's friends anarry. Next a man got up and began in the same strain, when Mr. Walcott called him to order.

"We don't want any personalities." he said.

Mr. Baylis protested. Mr. Walcott was obstidate. Mr. Baylis's friends got up one by one, and stood ready to do battle. Mr. Elsey's friends got up too. The war of words went on getting warmer and warmer. Mr. Elsey took a hand in. The congregation began to get excited, and some called each names, such as liar, slanderer. The ministers stopped talking to each other and tried to calm the excitement in the congregation. Mr. Elsey ordered every one to leave the building. No one went, and Mr. Elsey said if it were not vacated at once the lights would be put out. Augustus Elsey, his son, ran to the meeter and turfied off the gas. Darkness storped hostilities, and verybody went home.

Yesterday Mr. Baylis's friends in the congregation and some congregation or the care.

Elsoy, his son, ran to the meter and turned off the gas. Darkness stopped hostilities, and verybody went home.

Yesterday Mr. Baylis's friends in the congregation rented the Republican wigwam at the corner of Bergen and Fairmount avenue, and to-day Mr. Baylis will conduct meetings there.

Mrs. Tulp, the woman who made the charges sgainst Mr. Baylis, was seen by a SUN reporter yesterday. She wanted to say a good deal, but her husband and son held her back. She did say that Mr. Baylis was all wrong, that Mr. and Mrs. Elsey were very good people.

"Mr. Baylis," she said, "does not practice what he preaches. He wants the earth and family row."

can't get it. The whole trouble began with a family row."

She would not tell exactly what charges she had made, but she mentioned many instances to prove that what she had said about him was true.

"Why Thanksgiving Day," she said. "that man stood in the pulpit and told the people that that was the first Thanksgiving that he had not had a turkey for dinner. Two prople took the hint and went sut and bought him two turkeys."

mentary description of her as she appeared to him.

When she began to absent herself from church, he said, "I called on her and asked her why she did it. She replied: 'I am dead to the world. There is too much hypocrisy and deceit in the church for me,' I replied: 'It is well to be dead to the world but it is better to be alive to God.' I then asked her if she had ever read a poementitied 'The Church Walking with the World.' She said she had not and asked me to send it to her. I did, and in a week Mr. Elsey accused me of sending his wife a yile, indecent poem. I told him the poem I sent was sent at his wife a request. He got abusive and I said to him: 'It is evident Mr. Elsey, that you and your wife want to disting how I shall need and what I shall sead and what I shall say. I want you to understand I am not preaching for bread and butter, but I am a servant of the Lord and I take my orders from Him only.' Shortly after this Mrs. Tulp came to my house and made the charges against my children, demanded proof, and she said she would give it. She did not do it but accused my oldest son of a crime. When she faced him she backed down in the presence of a witness who had been secreted in the back parlor to hear what was said. I appointed a committee to make her tell her authority for her stories. She refused them, too. After the trouble in the church, when Mr. Brower gave me the lie. Mr. Baylis went to a bookcase and took a package from it.

"Just look at it." he said indignantly, as he unrolled a piece of calleo with a price mark 49c, stamped on it. "There was just enough in the bundle to make Mrs. Baylis a dress."

Mr. Baylis said Mrs. Elsey had abused him infamously. She had called him a hull-headed devil and many other like names. He showed the reporter letters to prove this statement. In conclusion, he said:

"Mr. Elsey and I had an undorstanding this morning. He paid me $460 in cash and gave me house rent free until April 15. and a certificate to the effect that he had brotherly confidence in me and expressing his appreciation of my christian character, my ministerial ability, and my fathfuiness."

Services will be held in the chapel to-day. It is not known who will officiate. At least one-half the congregation will leave the church, and will organize a new one. A member, in speaking of the trouble, said:

"Well, God moves in a mysterious way His wonders to perform, and it may be that when the wants to organize a new church here He lets the members of one of the old ones get fighting, and there is a split. Maybe it's all for the best? Who knows?"

NO AGREEMENT YET.

The Ratirond Presidents Still Discussing

the Question of Territory. CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—The Presidents of the Western railroads to-day discussed the territory to be included in the Inter-State Commerce Railroad Association. The committee appointed to wrestle with the question turned in a unanimous report, but the Burlington and Northern and the Wabash at once entered a vigorous protest. The former road thought that the "Soo" road should be invited to join the asso-ciation, or that some provision should be made to meet outside competition that would allow the roads now members of the new association to protect themselves.

Vice-President McMullin of the Alton said that any word could protect itself under section 3 of the agreement, Mr. McMullin answered that the special object in view when he proposed the amendment was to meet just such an emergency as the Burlington and Northern feared might arise in the Northwest. Vice-President Harris said the Burlington and Nothern would not object to signing the agreement under those circumstances, but he thought the agreement did not give the roads within the association enough authority in respect to meeting the rates of outside lines.

Receiver McNulta of the Wabash also proved to be a stumbling block. The committee in its report recommended that the main line of Wabash, from St. Louis to Toledo, be included in the new association. This was unsatisfactory to the Wabash poorle. After wrangling all day over these questions the meeting adjourned until Monday. The feeling among rallroad officials is very sanguine that an agreement will be reached, and that there will be no patchwork about it. Vice-President McMullin said to-night: We have agreed to keep at work until we get a satisfactory agreement, if it takes all winter, and I leel certain that our efforts will be successful." the roads now members of the new association

AN INJUNCTION IN THE ARMORY.

Veterans in the Seventh Regiment. About ten days ago the officers of the honorable and veteran comrades of the Seventh Regiment called an annual meeting for the election of directors, to be held in the "veterans' room," in the armory, last evening Without the permission of the older organization of veterans chairs were placed in their room for the use of those who were expected to answer this call. It so happened that a special committee meeting of the veterans was also called for last evening, and when the vetcalled for last evening, and when the veterans heard yesterday that the honorable and veteran comrades proposed to occupy their room, to the exclusion of their committee, they went before Justice Patterson of the Supreme Court and got him to issue an injunction, returnable on Wednesday, restraining the officers of the Seventh Regiment, the trustees of the Seventh Regiment armory fund, and all the honorable and veteran comrades from intering with "the peaceable and exclusive occupancy" of the veterans room by the veterans when, therefore, the H. A. V. C.'s arrived at the armory last night, copies of the injunction were served on Co. A. A. Bremmer, their President; Col. Clark, Gen. Louis Fitzgerald, and others, and they were obliged to hold their meeting in another room, while the veterans' committee occupied the veteran's room. The H. A. V. C.'s, however, after they had elected their directors, had w spread in the library adjoining the veterans' room.

Still another organization of veterans of the Seventh Regiment has been formed. It is the Seventh Regiment Veteran Club, and it has been incorporated. Plans for a club house have been prepared.

WOLCOTT'S DAY AT THE BRANCH. The Colorado Senator Elect Convinced the

From the Philadelphia Times. New York. Jan. 25.—Wolcott's stay at the Branch was limited to one week, but in that time he won and still wears the title of "The Plunger of Colorado." The first days he did not attend the races, but on Saturday's great race, the last of July, the Colorado lawyer, who brought with him $10,000, made some bold dashes, and at the last heat that day was winner of a cool $5,000. This was only a "refresher" to an Eastern man whose nerves had become-steeled in the crisp atmosphere of the Colorado mountains, where miners sometimes win and lose fortunes in a day and a night.

After the races Wolcott went to Phil Daly's restaurant with two miners from among his far West clients. He rarely indulges in champagne, preferring, as solid Western men mostify do, Kentucky whiskey. Wolcott's favorite tippe was old Pepper whiskey. After haif a dozen woedcock on toast, irrigated by a couple of bottles of Green Seal, Wolcott proposed the tiger as a pastime. The game began at 8 P. M., and Wolcott was allowed to increase the limit by Phil Daly's special request to $1,000 on a single card.

The play varied. At one time the new Senater two Colorado was winner $25,000 but he professional states of the colorado mountains, where miners sometimes with a day, and the descriptions of four men who were passing counterfeit silver dollars were telephoned to the police station. At 1 o'clock this morning three strangers registered at the City Hotel, and were assigned to two rooms. They told the clerk that they did not wish to be disturbed. An hour later four policemen that time to reach under their dors but received no answer. They does were forced, and before the men to the police station. They gave their names at James Clark, Frank Allen, and John Hiarrison, each about 24 years of age, and ordinarily well drussed. They had registered under the names of Taylor, Anderson, and Wilson. The play varied. At one time the new Senator from Colorado was winner $25,000, but he said he felt like winning Venus and the stars out of the entire milky way. The game proceeded. Wolcott's pile of Ivory chips, worth $100 each, gradually grew smaller. But the Plunger, like Paul Jones, "had only begun to fight" the tiger! At one time there was $30,000 to his credit, but luck turned toward Phil Daly, and at 10 P. M. Wolcott rose and stretched himself and asked for Daly's check for his winnings. He got a check on a Long Branch bank for $12,000.

"We will now go to John Daly's den." said the smiling Plunger. "Who knows but that I may break the bank. This is my lucky day." A light supper in John Daly's pagoda, and Wolcott began to make the fur fly from the new tiger. He played till 1 o'clock. When Wolcott began the game he had $18,000 in his vost pocket, his winnings on the race track and at Phil's. His luck had cruelly deserted him. After ordering a parting drink of Pepper whiskey he said at 1 A. M., "John, we d better settle."

Daly turned calmly to the "Plunger," who whistoy he said at I. Jan., south, we detersettle."

Daly turned calmly to the "Plunger," who looked as placid as the summer sea, and said, "Wolcott, you owe the bank $25,000."

"That's more than I have about me."

"Never mind," said the accomblished and polite Daly,

"Yes. I do mind," said Wolcott, coldly, "He pulled out Phil Daly's check for $12,000, cash si,000, and turned it all in.

"Will you take my, draft on Denver for $7,000?"

"Certainly," said Daly.

"Certainly," said Daly.

"Certainly," said Daly.

James O'Connor. Daly's nephew, at 8 Barclay street, told to-day the rest of the story:

"A fairy tale was circulated last summer about Wolcott, that he was a welcher.' It's a lie. Ed Wolcott is a prince of the royal blood. He lost $25,000 at our game one Saturday night last July at Long Branch, and he paid every dollar of it before Sunday noon."

"How?" I said.

"Well, the last $7,000 was paid in seven $1,000 bills Sunday noon following the play. Wolcott has credit here for $50,000 if he wants it."

out at a big profit. She brought logwood back for the Greenpoint Dye Works, Capt, Coull says he entered Port de Paix on the evening of the 8th, with all lights burning and the Legitimist gunboat Belize in sight. When she whistled the Belize made off and disappeared.

The town was hungry. The garrison was small and half clothed. The soldiers were armed chiefly with old-fashioned horse pistols, and the artillery consisted of old cannon four or five feet long.

There were two passengers on the Wensleydale-B. de Pendry, a French Canadian school-master, who is on his way home after teaching master. who is on his way home after teaching two years in Port de Paix, and Frederick Elic, who described himself as a merchant on business, but is believed to have come straight from Hippolyte at Cape Haytien.

Mr. de Pendry confirmed the late news that Hippelyte had beaton Légitime's forces in three successive engagements. They were at Las Cahobas, Mirobolais, and Achales. In the Montrouis engagement, which was reported here from Port-au-Prince as a victory for the Légitimiste, he says the northern forces badly whipped Gen. Piquant and took as many as sixteen prisoners, Gen. Piquant fied, closely pursued, and made for the coast, where the Toussant l'Ouverture was lying. In such close quarters did he find himself that he didn't dare to wait for the Toussant's boat to get to him, but jumped in the ocean and swam to meet the boat, while his pursuers popped horse pistols at him from the shore.

Two weeks ago the Toussant l'Ouverture tackled Cape Haytien again and fired shells for a whole day. Fort Piccolet replied. Only one shell reached the town. Mr. de Pendry said that Hippolyte was putting off an aggressive campaign until his new navy was rendy for action. The plan then was to march the entire Northern army straight for Port-au-Prince, while the gunboats worked around to the harbor, Hippolyte will not have to wait for the arrival of the Madrid. A GATLING TORPEDO BOAT.

The Inventor Thinks It Solves the Problem of Harbor Defeaces by Torpedoes.

Dr. Richard J. Gatling of Hartford, the inventor of the famous gun, has recently invent-ed a torpedo boat for harbor defence. Patents in this country and in foreign countries are about to issue. Dr. Gatling said last night: "I think that I have solved the problem of harbor defence by torpedo boats. I have invented a boat which is certain in its action. invented a boat which is certain in its action, and which is controlled wholly by the intelligence of operators in it. It has extremely high speed. It is so constructed that its crow are almost wholly protected from the enemy's fire. The boat cannot be destroyed or sunk without great difficulty. The old automatic torpedes have never been successful. They are erratic in their course after they leave the hands of the operators—are deflected by currents, sonweed &c., and hardly ever reach the points at which they are aimed. But, on the other hand, the present form of spar torpedo boats are dangerous to the crew. I think I have got over these difficulties. My boat, too, is inexpensive. Four of them can be built for $100,000."

Until the patents are out Dr. Gatling does not care to describe the boat further.

Arrested for Passing Counterfelt Cols. READING, Jan. 26 .- All the week the Schuylkill valley has been flooded with spurious silver dollars. Every town from Philadel-phia to Reading has been visited, and the spurious coin found its way into thousands of small tills, principally in beer saloons and The doors were forced, and before the men had time to reach under their pillows to draw their weapons they were captured and taken to the police station. They gave their names as James Clark, Frank Allen, and John Harrison, each about 24 years of age, and ordinarily well dressed. They had registered under the names of Taylor, Anderson, and wilson. They were searched, and nearly $200 in good money was found on Allen and Harrison. No counterfeit money was found. The fourth man of the gang, who carried a valise supposed to contain the counterfeit money, was not found. A number of witnesses to-day positively swore that the three men had visited their stores and passed spurious coin. Clark is an Italian, and cannot speak English fluently. He had $4 in small change, but says he gave all his good money to his companions. This leads to the supposition that the American counterfeiters in large cities are selling the foreign laborers the bogus money and teaching them how to pass it. The three men were sent to jail for court.

Brother and Sister Reunited.

RED BANK, Jan. 26 .- After thirty years of separation William T. Wood and his sister, Mrs. Sarah Lyons, have been reunited. Each had thought the other dead for several years. Thirty years ago the brother and sister lost each other in New York city. After repeated inquiry, with no success, they gave each other up for dead. Mr. Wood went to work in New York and his sister drifted to New Jersey, where she found employment with a family near here. She married John Lyons. After his death she took up her residence with the family of Wm. Pitcher at Branchport. Mr. Wood now lives in Brooklyn, and it is said that he is well to do, He was talking with a friend named Van Naior the other day, when the latter, who has relatives living near Branchport, said he had been introduced to a widow named Lyons, who, he was afterward told, had been strangely separated from her brother in New York thirty years ago. arated from her brother in New York intray years ago.

This conversation caused Mr. Wood to make inquiries, and he obtained last week an answer to a letter which he wrote to his sister. He went to Branchport on Tuesday and there was a joyful reunion, Mrs. Lyons has been dangerously siek with pneumonia for some time, and fears are entertained that she will not recover. If she does get well she will make her home with her brother in Brocklyn.

It will be located in Port Deposit, Cecil county, and if Mr. Tome's ideas are carried out, will be the most complete institution of its kind in the country, and perhaps in the world.
